

Net's Café, Little Neston - 14th January 2018

This may not sound much of a distance but we went via Foxcote Café. Much of the first section of the ride was heading into a very cold SE wind - however we were quite lucky for it was an open day with no rain or ice and a little sun to cheer us on the way.

Opposite the Eureka

The Foxcote looked after us well even if we did rather swamp them when we all arrived. Years ago this used to be a very good fish restaurant then it closed for many years before opening up as a café with antiques for sale, but I noticed that although it is under new management it only opens on Saturday and Sunday between 10.00am and 4.00pm - in stark contrast to Meadow Lea and Net's which seem to be very busy all day.

After Foxcote we continued SE to Oscroft, round the south of Tarvin, across the A51 and on past the entrance to Walk Mill. We crossed the A41 to Saighton (a memory for some of us of the infamous training camp for new Army recruits), then from Huntington via the cycle path to join the A41. That made a change from usual, and kept us away from the cars!

Onto the Greenway and so to Net's Café. We enjoyed a lovely ride across the Dee Marsh when at last the wind gave us a good push from behind.

I am sorry I didn't take more photos but my sim became locked and it isn't so easy to adjust with two pairs of gloves on and cold fingers - could do better next time!

Thank you Andy for an enjoyable ride.
