

The Plassey (Bob's Birthday Ride!) - 2nd October 2011

It's been a funny old week: as late as Saturday temperatures were still were they had been for several days. HOT.

91° F, or for those that are not familiar with German, 33° C - a record for October.

Sunday however, dawned wet and windy for my annual ride to The Plassey, but at The Eureka I was presented with a lovely birthday card, signed by many CTC Two Mills members. Thanks, I thought the muscle definition was superb!

Anyway, it had stopped raining by now, so off we went. It is worth noting that the gentlemen were again outnumbered by the ladies 8 to 5! Is this all due to the success of The Bicycle Belles, we ask ourselves?

A familiar route led us to a late 11ses at Pulford church followed by a less familiar ride to arrive at The Plassey for 1.00 pm. Lunch. Some ate slowly cooked conventional food; others had a quick sandwich behind the hedge!

But we all joined again to enjoy the splendid l'objet d'art in the garden. An odd lookout tower, interesting tree carvings and a little poem tied to a Mulberry tree.

I didn't get a birthday cake with my lunch (more of that later) but a group photo with suitable banner had been arranged.

Lunch and such frivolities over, I chose a new route home, mixing narrow lanes and a few B roads, just getting us back to The Eureka before closing time.

Later that evening, I did get a birthday cake, after enjoying my favourite meal, a fish curry, prepared by my son-in-law.

A perfect end to the day!

One quick mention of an unusual present I received: a photo frame fashioned from recycled cycle chain. I understand other such items, made from chains are available.

Whatever next?

Bob
