

Wirral Wander – 11th December 2011

It was pouring down again at ‘decision time’, so we elected to use the car and join the rest of the group at ‘the meet’, which today was at Costa Coffee Shop in Heswall.

Braving the weather

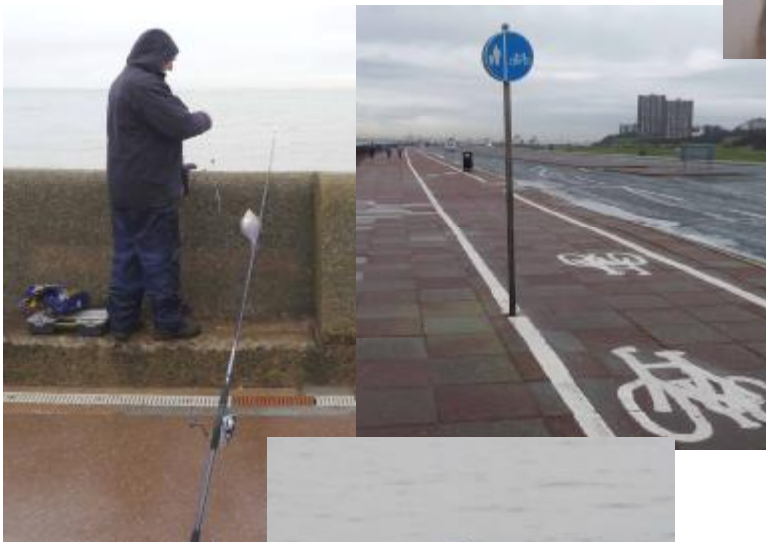

Surprisingly, there were a good number of members who had braved the weather.

So, after several cups of coffee each, those riding, once suitably attired, stepped outside, mounted their machines, and rode off following Graham, in the opposite direction to New Brighton, the designated lunch place.

Reportedly, an unfortunate mishap on the Wirral Way, unseated one or two and so delayed their eventual arrival at Morrison's new store at New Brighton.

We, four of us, parked some way along promenade and viewed the forest of wind turbines (only a few were turning!), enthusiastic fishermen, sheltering birds, the partially built swimming pool and the new Floral Pavilion, before our arrival at Morrison's café for lunch.

The apparent menu was vast and needed long contemplation before an order was placed.

The food, when it arrived, was good, but the ordering system needs 'fine tuning'.

The weather did improve as the day progressed, but I am sure the wet and muddy riders were glad to get home.

Well done and thank you Graham, for turning out to lead a ride on such a day.
