

The Piper, Piper's Ash - 25th January 2017

Ash pub for lunch.

On my way to the Eureka I noticed something rustling in a field and would you believe it, as the leaves cleared it was a 'Wee, slekit, cowrin, tim'rous, beastie', and I realised it was the 25th January, Burn's Night. What a day it was, not a cloud in the blue sky, although quite cold, but not cold enough to stop twenty-four riders going to the Pipers

I think John's interesting description of the route had encouraged some to do the ride, his e-Mail mentioned some points of interest on the way. I'm still in the dark regarding the 'mushroom farm', although it was to be a ride of extreme contrasts. We had the chocolate box village of Burton with excellent views of North Wales across the Dee, then to the nice village of Eastham - but it all changed as we entered the 'Northern Powerhouse' that is Ellesmere Port. I would like to add to John's comments with regard to the first W1 RAF hangers. Before the airport, there was a stately home there called Hooton Hall. The owners had a yacht on the Mersey until they built the Manchester Ship Canal. It was also the site of a racecourse with over 2000 attending. The aristocrats were the Stanley's, the Derby's and Lord Bunbury and they all enjoyed horse racing. The story goes: Lord Derby and Lord Bunbury wanted to sponsor a race, is it Epsom or Ascot? They tossed a coin; the result is we have the Derby.

We were riding in two groups with Chris S leading one and John the second; I think with him taking photos. Leaving chemical alley we returned to country lanes and went through the award winning village of Christleton to the venue, where Bob and Jill met us. The staff made us very welcome and their food got the thumbs up also - I think we will be going back.

Our return took us past Chester Zoo and through the gates; it had warmed up as the day went on making it a very enjoyable ride. so thanks again to John and Chris.

Well apart from it being Burns Night, that amazing Wikipedia records that a remarkable woman by the name of Nellie Bly (real name Elizabeth Jane Cochran) sponsored by her paper completed a round the world trip in 72 days in 1890. She also agreed to go on an undercover assignment by feigning insanity to investigate reports of brutality and neglect at a women's lunatic asylum on Blackwell's Island. She wrote a report "Ten Days in a Madhouse". She died on 27 Jan 1922 aged 57.

Another worth a mention was Frank Soo being the first non white footballer to play for England (9 times). He began his career with Cheshire League side Prescot Cables before moving to Stoke in 1933. He guested for Newcastle, Everton and Blackburn. Chelsea popped his studs in 1991.

On this day we lost a wonderful woman and dear friend Dorothy Clift, a keen cyclist and missed very much. In case you don't know, her husband Bob mapped the Cheshire Cycleway.
